Welcome

I warmly welcome you to the inaugural Global Russia Business Meeting and sincerely hope that you will enjoy the discussions.

The Global Russia Business Meeting will bring together a host of eminent business leaders to discuss Russian firms' role in the global economy. Also, the Global Russia Business Meeting will provide a special focus on Russia's interaction with other emerging economies. In addition, participants will reflect on strategies to overcome the current economic crisis. As the current financial crisis intensifies, panellists will examine the state of the global economy and Russia's role in shaping the post-crisis world.

The Global Russia Business Meeting aims to be one of the foremost annual gatherings of Russian business leaders and their global counterparts. The event is open to Chief Executive Officers of the world's leading companies.

It is my sincere hope that the Global Russia Business Meeting will further promote win-win economic relations, stimulate innovation and provide business opportunities for corporations from Russia and the world.

I wish you a thought-provoking and exceptional meeting.

Welcome

It gives me great pleasure to welcome you to the Global Russia Business Meeting.

The current global economic challenges have reset the playing field. The world must find new tools to address these challenges, and we believe that Russia and its economy can play a significant part in these endeavours.

Even now, with an increasingly globalised world, a sense of mystery can remain when doing business with Russia. I am pleased to welcome to the Global Russia Business Meeting many companies and individuals who have unveiled the secrets of success and are willing to share them with those who are just embarking on this journey. I believe the agenda of the meeting before you will provide us with a good starting point for both formal and informal discussions.

In the light of the traditionally excellent relations between Slovenia and Russia, the Slovenian Government is privileged to host the very first meeting of such eminent business executives dedicated solely to Russia.

The foundations of today's good relations between Slovenia and Russia, which have also contributed to the successful delivery of this event, have been carefully laid over the centuries by many individuals from all walks of life, creating lasting ties between the two nations. Such ties have proved to be a valuable asset for the business communities of both countries. Looking ahead, Slovenia sees a broad field of unexploited potential, both in doing business with Russia and in Slovenia as a regional hub for Russia and its partners in globalising their operations. The Global Russia Business Meeting is the next step in making full use of this potential.

On behalf of the Government of the Republic of Slovenia, I wish you a productive meeting and a pleasant stay in Slovenia.

Warm regards,

Borut Pahor
Prime Minister of the Republic of Slovenia

Co-host of the Global Russia Business Meeting

The Republic of Slovenia lies at the heart of Europe where the Alps and the Mediterranean meet the Pannonian plains and the mysterious Karst. To the north is Austria, to the east Hungary, to the south Croatia, and to the west Italy. According to the last census, a little under two million people live here on just over twenty thousand square kilometers.

Slovenia became an independent state in 1991. It has since established an international position and reputation as a democratic, stable and successful Central European country. While preserving its natural and cultural heritage Slovenia is striving for simultaneous openness to the world. Lying at a junction of natural trading routes, Slovenia is sometimes also referred to as the revolving door of Europe. In the last decade and a half, Slovenia has raised itself from anonymity to a top country among the EU member states. It is proud of its rich industrial history, traditional openness to the world, rational economic policies, and enviable economic development. Slovenia became a member of the EU in 2004.
